Nazis Face Famine; Food Stocks Lost

Russ Advances Cost Germany Millions in Supplies.

LONDON.—British economic experts estimated that Germany had lost roughly 16,000,000 tons of food supplies as a result of the Russian advances, and said that food situation within the country might be tragic by autumn.

They agreed, however, that Germany probably would be able to stave off famine until after spring.

These experts said that Germany's food situation deteriorated rapidly during the past few weeks because of disorganized transport and the influx of millions of refugees from areas overrun by the Russian armies.

Germany has lost an eighth of the regular meat supply, a third of sugar, a fourth of the potatoes, a fifth of the bread grain, an eighth of the milk and cheese, and a tenth of the butter, an official of the British ministry of economic warfare estimated.

Last November the Germans said that their reserve food stocks, built up from occupied countries, were then seriously depleted, and that Germany would have to face this winter with her own resources.

Declaring that Germany's potato crop gradually had been diminishing since the beginning of the war, a British spokesman estimated the 1944-45 crop at approximately 38,600,000 tons.

Large stocks were left behind when Soviet armies rolled into Silesia, East Prussia and Poland. The German potato haul was estimated at approximately 9,500,000 tons.

German bread grain stocks for 1944-45 were estimated at 10,000,000 tons, of which Silesia produced 10 per cent, East Prussia 6 per cent and Poland more than 1,000,000 tons. The Germans stand to lose approximately 700,000 tons when Pomerania is cut off.

'Not Working Now, Senor,' Is Plain Mexican Logic

CAMP PENDLETON.—A sergeant major at Camp Pendleton writes: Sgt. I. R. McVay settled in a little cottage some miles from town, where his neighbors were few and far between. One neighbor, an ancient Mexican, could be seen sunning himself every day, indifferent to the untended condition of his farm. Taking a Sunday walk, the sergeant major stopped to chat with his neighbor. "You should plant these fine fields and raise a lot of crops," the marine remarked.

The old man raised one sleepy eye. "For why, senor?"

"Well, you could sell the crops and make a lot of money."

The ancient one nodded his head politely. "For why, senor?"

"You could put the money in the bank and you wouldn't have to work any more," the sergeant major said convincingly.

The old man weighed this carefully for a moment, relaxed, and closed his eyes. "Not working now, senor," he said softly.

Japs Wash and Shave, Then They Surrender

WITH THE MARINES.—Once upon a time there were five Japs in a cave who wanted to surrender. They weren't the first Japs who have felt that way since the war began, and they certainly won't be the last. But these boys didn't crawl out of their hole with their hands up, looking like something that grew in the muck. When they surrendered it was with the air of a defeated general and his staff at the fall of an army, relates "The Leatherneck."

The officer in charge ordered his men to wash and shave. Then, attired in immaculate white shirts, and with their hair cut, the four men lined up behind the officer and marched out to surrender, flying a sheet as a white flag.

Marines who investigated the cave found it furnished with bamboo stools, white sheets, mosquito nets, American Community plate silverware, and an improvised bath tub.

Plenty U. S. Cigarettes In Rome at $1.40 a Pack

ROME.—Despite somewhat more stringent controls imposed on the sources of supply lately, Rome's black market is well stocked with both American and British cigarettes sent to Italy for the Allied armies.

How these supplies reach the black market is now the subject of investigation, but so far responsibility has not been fixed publicly.

Black market prices for standard brand American cigarettes run from 140 to 150 lire ($1.40 to $1.50) a pack. English brands usually are about $1.20.

All Civilian Goods End in Reich Plants

LONDON. — Manufacture of civilian goods in Germany "has now completely ceased," the DNB news agency reported in a broadcast. "Even everyday necessities cannot be produced any more," the radio report stated. "Everybody should use old reserves and materials now must last until the war is over."

President Osmena Predicts Japs Will Be Hard To Beat

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Sergio Osmena of the Philippines, now in process of complete reconquering from the Japanese and from which General Douglas MacArthur's land forces under Admiral Chester Nimitz will swing into final action against the enemy, today issued a statement in behalf of the Philippine Seventh War Loan.

President Osmena's statement was released by Brigadier General Carlos P. Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, at the Philippine office here. President Osmena said:

OSMENA

"Needless to say, we Filipinos are very pleased with the signal successes achieved by the United States and her allies during recent months. After a long and hard struggle, the Germans have been pushed to the brink of overwhelming defeat and the end of the war in Europe is now clearly in sight.

"In the Pacific, our gains have been no less impressive. Under the inspiring leadership of such men as General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz, the Japanese have been dislodged from one position after another in their ill-gotten empire. In this connection, my people and I are extremely grateful that the Philippines are now being liberated from the tyrannical rule of the enemy.

"Happy as I am that my country will soon be able to live in peace again, much remains to be done before Japan is fully beaten. Aside from the additional campaigns which will be needed to obtain military victory in the Pacific, there is also the human factor to be considered in that other peoples of the Far East eagerly await to be freed from the enemy. We Filipinos know only too well from experience what it means to be under Japanese domination.

"One of the outstanding feats of the war has undoubtedly been the effective fashion in which the United States has overcome the formidable obstacles of distance in supplying the Pacific. Large quantities of supplies will be needed, however, to deliver the final crushing blows against a ruthless and fanatical enemy. All of us can make certain that these supplies are available for our armed forces by giving enthusiastic support to the Seventh War Loan Drive."

THE 7TH WAR LOAN IS ON!

Yes, the Seventh War Loan is on right now!

There are new planes to be built . . . new tanks . . . new ships. All to bring the war to an earlier close.

Our fighting men will do their job. But we must do ours!

And right now, the most important job we have is to meet our personal quotas in the Seventh War Loan drive!

Those quotas are big. Uncle Sam needs $7,000,000,000 from individuals. For this loan is really 2 in 1—there had been 2 drives in 1944, by this time. So now—we've got to do a two-loan job in one.

But Americans have never failed to meet a War Bond quota yet—and we won't fail now! So find out what your quota is—and meet it!

7TH WAR LOAN DRIVE

YES, despite their long months and years of privation and suffering, those gallant men, just released from filthy Jap Prison Camps, still have their good old fighting spirit. They're itching to get back into the fight and give the Nips a taste of their own medicine.

Let's show them that we're not quitting either! Let's match their spirit with our dollars! Let's make this MIGHTY 7th War Loan the mightiest of them all!

But to come even close to matching their sacrifices, everyone here at home must buy War Bonds until it hurts. Buy double or treble the extra War Bonds you've bought in any previous drive. Remember, this is really two drives in one. In the same period last year, you were asked to subscribe to two War Loans.

So let's go, Americans. Our hard-fighting Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are giving their ALL. The least we can do is to lend our dollars.
